POST-DISPATCH,
515 and 517 Market streets.

THURSDAY, JULY 2, 1855.

Subscribers to the Post-Dispatch who contend leave the city during the summer will receive their paper as usual if they will leave the new address at this office give it to the carrier.

The tax-dodgers have an organ at last. The poor old Republicans comes out openly in defense of the under assessment of railroads, and in abuse of those who try to correct it.

The tax dodging railroad corporations of Missouri have enlisted the Republican to do their dirty work. For this service and for such service only the Republican is a success.

A NEWSPAPER ASSESSED AT A RIDICULOUSLY LOW FIGURE, ACCORDING TO OUR OWN STATEMENT. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 1.—[Special.]—Following is an extract from a letter written by a well-known and responsible party, which is now before the State Board of Equalization:

"I see that the Post-Dispatch is fighting for a high assessment. I would like to give the Board some figures to show the value of the Post-Dispatch. Last year its tax was $10,000; at least so I say, and I suppose its statement is correct. This at 10 per cent would be the interest on $100,000, yet this paper is not assessed at $30,000 or one-fifth of its net income."

The Dillon estate is the owner of some vacant lots in St. Louis, which were held for deposit purposes. The property is assessed at $30,000, and was valued at $50,000, and a board of commissioners have just awarded them $30,000, or five times its assessed value.

"This is the way property is assessed in St. Louis. I only care that to particular portion held by the Post-Dispatch or persons connected with it. I have no doubt the balance is assessed in about the same proportion. I am actuated by a desire to consider if these Princes are worth what they cost."

MEXICO is now enjoying the delights of a freight war between the railroads, with the added feature that the Government proposes to take a hand in it. The war is between the Vera Cruz Road and the Mexican Central, and if the Government is wise it will let them fight it out.

THE NATURAL ORDER OF AFFAIRS IN STREET CAR CITIES IN CHICAGO has been reversed, and the drivers and conductors are giving orders to the superintendents. The citizens are siding with the mob, the Mayor is dodging bricks, beer kegs and other light and airy missiles, and the policemen are ferociously fierce in their resistance. All that is wanted is to have the strikers depose the Mayor, accept the allegiance of the police, put the superintendents and directors of the street car companies on as drivers and conductors, and the beginning of the anarchist millennium will be realized.

IT IS NOT THE FAULT OF THE POST-DISPATCH that there is no flat tax on incomes and no just equalization of assessments. It is not the fault of the Post-Dispatch, nor of any body connected with it, that leasehold property held by a brewing company with big political influence is assessed to that company far below its true value, and far lower than other property belonging to the same estate is assessed.

The allusion to the Dillon estate is a piece of personal malice which falls as far short of the mark as the allusion to the Post-Dispatch. The property referred to is in the hands of a trustee; nearly all of it has been leased for more than twenty years at a fixed rent to the Wainwright Brewing Company, which has paid the taxes. No person connected with the Post-Dispatch has any interest in the assessment nor any control over it.

BUT EVEN IF THERE WERE ONE TRUE STATEMENT IN THE WHOLE TISSUE OF LIES, IT WOULD ONLY AMOUNT TO SAYING THAT BECAUSE THE ASSASSIN OF ST. LOUIS DOES NOT ASSESS FRANCHISES OR INCOMES, THEREFORE THE STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION MUST NOT DO ITS DUTY UNDER THE LAW AND ASSESS THE PROPERTY OF THE RAILROAD CORPORATIONS AT ITS TRUE VALUE.

WE DO NOT KNOW WHETHER THE REPUBLICANS ENJOY THE POSITION IN WHICH IT HAS PLACED ITSELF, BUT WE PROPOSE TO KEEP IT THERE.

A RISTOCRATIC MR. CADWALADER.

The Philadelphia Kinsman of Mr. Bayard Who is to be Collector of the Port Philadelphia Correspondent of the World.

Quaker City society is in a high state of jubilation over the prospective appointment of Mr. John Cadwalader as Collector of the Port of Philadelphia's most exclusive set. He is a descendant of two of the most English monarchs in history. His father, Mr. Cadwalader, was a man of great wealth and influence, and his son, Mr. Bayard, is to that fact his son.

He is considered here in Philadelphia to be just a pig beyond any other person in the United States.

He gave a grand ball last winter in a hall owned by a British society, his house not being sufficiently large.

A crowd of representatives of the bluest blood in the country danced in silk and jewels until two in the morning.

The presence of Britain's Queen in oils was distinctly noticed.

Mr. Bayard is to be considered respectable enough in New York to be received at the Mexican Central Railroad if it would take advantage of the situation, and consent to accept bonds instead of the subsidy on condition that the Government would make adequate concessions in return.

A much heavier blow at railroad prosperity is indicated in the morning's news that the Government has forbidden the Mexican Central to make special rates.

The Mexican Central must either make special rates or let the Vera Cruz Road do the business, and, if the Government wishes it, can, by enforcing the charter, cripple the business of the company badly.

It is a curious coincidence of fate that the Government should threaten the Republic with various penalties for violations of the Van Rossem and Livingston's Act.

Louis' just violated its agreement with the road in a way that might have bankrupted it.

The Mexican Central is receiving very bad treatment, which cannot do harm to all foreign investment in Mexico.

IF THE REPUBLICAN continues to labor under the delusion that it can defend the State Board of Equalization and weaken the position of the Post-Dispatch on the subject of equalization by pointing out cases in which the assessment favors corporations, we will help it to point out some startling cases of that kind. It is not impossible to designate corporation property in Missouri which the State Board has permitted to be assessed at a capital valuation less than its net annual earnings as sworn to by its manager and principal stockholder on the witness stand. Perhaps we can give the Republicans the name of a member of the State Board of Equalization who is personally cognizant of such cases, and who, if he is put on the witness stand, would have to swear that he knows of just such assessments of street-railroad property belonging to certain very warm and very influential political friends of his. We believe he could specify a certain case of street-railroad property in Kansas City notoriously salable for a million dollar cash, but which has been assessed right straight along at a valuation far below the sum of its net annual earnings. Does the Republicans hold that such cases can be properly ignored by a public journal for "a share of the pork?"

TO infer from conversations with him, he is inclined to that opinion himself.

He is very wealthy, his estate being put down at $1,000,000. He received a fortune from his uncle, Gen. George Cadwalader of the Mexican war. His father, the late Judge Cadwalader of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, left him considerable property. Family has been known as long as it has been at all, for the tenacity of purpose with which it cleaves to public office. Mr. Cadwalader is a lawyer, though he confines his practices to looking after his own estate. He has the old Philadelphia feeling of conservatism in financial matters and he counts his pennies over several times before he lets them go.

His largest expenditures are for society purposes. He is always giving two or three big entertainments a year.

A TROUBLED ORGAN.

The Republicon this morning comes to the rescue of the railroad corporations in their struggle to avoid taxation, with the following issues of lies fabricated in St. Louis and published as a special dispatch from Jefferson City:

NEEDS EQUALIZATION AT A RIDICULOUSLY LOW FIGURE.
